The Attijariwafa bank group organizes the second edition of “African Talents”

The Attijariwafa bank group is organizing the second edition of the “African Talents” digital conference, on December 2nd and 3rd, 2021.

This conference is perfectly in line with the Attijariwafa bank group strategy, which is committed to promoting excellence on the continent and believes in the potential of Africa’s human capital.

Chaired by Mr. Mohamed EL KETTANI, Chairman and CEO of the Attijariwafa bank group, and initiated by the Group’s Human Capital department, this new edition aims to create a real dynamic among talents at the international and continental levels.

This event will be held under the theme “Africa and its challenges: How can talents contribute to the continent’s emergence?” and will bring together several Moroccan and foreign public figures, from the diplomatic, academic, financial and economic spheres, alongside senior executives of the Attijariwafa bank group.

This second edition will be attended by several African talents representing various countries and established in several continents. They will take part in a program that will be packed with discussions and sharing focusing on high value-added topics of interest for our continent.

Participants will have the opportunity to attend high-profile panel discussions on the challenges and issues related to Africa’s development. The talents will also be able to exchange with the Group’s Managers in Morocco and abroad on projects supported by Attijariwafa bank and the current perspectives on recruitment.

Through this second edition of the “African Talents” conference, Attijariwafa bank group renews its commitment to honor African talents and to support them in a sustainable manner.
